

Test Corrections for Extra Credit

The purpose for allowing you the opportunity to make test corrections for extra credit is to give you a second chance to show me what you know about the material we just covered. To earn extra credit, the following steps must be followed thoroughly.

- First label the top of your paper with "test corrections" and write your name.
- Rewrite the problem you had some points taken off.
- Solve the problem correctly, showing all possible work.
- Explain either, how to do the problem correctly or why you got it wrong depending on what makes sense for that particular problem.
- You must redo all problems you got points taken off.
- And, of course you must use a pencil.
